Explain: Middle East respiratory syndrome (MERS) is an emerging infectious disease first identified in September 2012. Chikungunya virus infection was first characterized in Africa in 1952. In December 2013 sustained transmission was identified in the Caribbean Islands and travel associated cases were identified in continental US shortly thereafter. It is imperative that public health authorities be rapidly notified when these infections are suspected or confirmed so that appropriate control measures can be implemented to prevent further spread. An emergency rule was implemented effective on September 2, 2014, followed by a temporary rule that was effective on December 2, 2014. This proposed amendment replaces the temporary rule to require ongoing reporting of MERS and Chikungunya.

Explain: The proposed permanent amendments to 15A NCAC 10F .0333 will replace the proposed temporary amendments to this Rule to be reviewed by the Rules Review Commission on April 16, 2015. Lake Wylie Marine Commission made formal application to the Wildlife Resources Commission requesting no-wake zone on Lake Wylie west of Sadler Island. Law Enforcement assessed and made numerous site visits. Based on the safety issues observed, officers recommended pursuing rule-making, with modifications, for the original request (Sadler Island west) and an additional no-wake zone (Sadler Island east). During certain times of the year, over 100 kayaks can be in the water at a time on the stretch of the Lake Wylie west of Sadler Island, and the width is too narrow for a motorboat going at a high rate of speed to be able to safely navigate around such a high concentration of kayakers. Furthermore, a motorboat gas pump is planned for this stretch of the lake.
