Explain: The Industrial Commission proposes for amendment the comprehensive electronic filing rule, 04 NCAC 10A .0108, for two primary reasons. First, the recently expanded capacity of the Commission's Electronic Document Filing Portal, which will allow for more document types to be submitted to the Industrial Commission in a safer, more cost-effective manner, can only be employed with a rule change. The amendment simplifies filing instructions by providing one method for electronic filing for most documents with specific, well-defined exceptions. Second, the amendment provides protections for the personal identifying information of injured workers that were absent from the original rule.

Explain: 10A NCAC 70A .0103 - G.S. 7B-302 creates the justification for county departments of social services to provide protective services to juveniles and their families of origin. Section 12C.1.(a) of Session Law 2014-100 also sought to reduce the appearance of conflicts of interest in child protective services cases. The North Carolina Child Welfare Services Manual addresses all the potential conflicts of interest a county child welfare agency may have in any given case. This rule change is being proposed to bring North Carolina Administrative Code into alignment with the policy manual. The North Carolina Association of County Directors of Social Services (NCACDSS) prioritized defining conflicts of interest and specifically what the case management practices should be in these types of cases. NCACDSS are supportive of these proposed changes and agree to assume responsibility for the management for these cases. 70A .0103(b) is amended to change "may" to "shall."

9B. Explain: 10A NCAC 70B .0102; 70M .0402, .0603; 70P .0101-.0105 - Public Law 110-351, Fostering Connections to Success and Increasing Adoptions Act of 2008, provides states with the option to continue providing Title IV-E reimbursable foster care, adoption, or guardianship assistance payments to children up to the age of 21. If a state opts in expanding IV-E foster care to age 21, then they must extend adoption assistance and guardianship assistance to age 21 for youth adopted from foster care at 16 and 17 years of age and continue to meet the educational or employment requirements. The North Carolina Session Law 2015-241 2015 Appropriations Act rewrites G.S. 131D-10.10 to charge the Social Services Commission with the power and duty to "adopt any rules necessary for the expansion of foster care for individuals who attained the age of 18 years and chosen to continue receiving foster care services to 21 years of age in accordance with G.S. 131D-10.10." Additionally, state law requires the Department of Health and Human Services, Division of Social Services (Division), to develop a plan for the expansion of foster care services for individuals who have attained the age of 18 years old and opt to continue receiving foster care services until reaching 21 years of age to be implemented by January 1, 2017. Per federal law, this plan must also include the expansion of adoption assistance. Research has consistently shown that youth who remain in care beyond age 18 receive additional independent living services, progress further in their education, experience less economic hardship, and experience less involvement with the criminal justice system than those who exit care at 18. Expanded foster care provides for positive outcomes for youth in care and has demonstrated cost savings for states by decreasing welfare, Medicaid, and criminal justice expenses over time. Session Law 2015-241, Section 12C.4 provides instructions to county child welfare agencies on how to implement Guardianship Assistance Programs in their counties. Guardianship assistance provides and alternative route to permanence when reunification and adoption has been ruled out as appropriate plans for youth. Guardianship assistance is also sensitive to potential guardians' and children's concerns about adoption and provides permanence for youth who would otherwise remain in foster care for the same period of time during which guardianship assistance benefits are provided. Guardianship assistance benefits will increase the number of youth exiting care to permanence by providing continued funds to assist in the cost of care for the youth. Some guardians currently receive WFFA child-only benefits when assuming guardianship of a youth while others may qualify for no benefits, resulting in a significant loss of financial support. Licensed caretakers often refuse to assume guardianship of the youth recognizing that remaining in care provides additional benefits and support for the youth. The Guardianship Assistance Program will address this disincentive to obtaining permanence.

9B. Explain: 10A NCAC 70B .0102; 70M .0402, .0603; 70P .0101-.0105 - Public Law 110-351, Fostering Connections to Success and Increasing Adoptions Act of 2008 , provides states with the option to continue providing Title IV-E reimbursable foster care, adoption, or guardianship assistance payments to children up to the age of 21. If a state opts in expanding IV-E foster care to age 21, then they must extend adoption assistance and guardianship assistance to age 21 for youth adopted from foster care at 16 and 17 years of age and continue to meet the educational or employment requirements. The North Carolina Session Law 2015-241 2015 Appropriations Act rewrites G.S. 131D-10.10 to charge the Social Services Commission with the power and duty to "adopt any rules necessary for the expansion of foster care for individuals who attained the age of 18 years and chosen to continue receiving foster care services to 21 years of age in accordance with G.S. 131D-10.10." Additionally, state law requires the Department of Health and Human Services, Division of Social Services (Division), to develop a plan for the expansion of foster care services for individuals who have attained the age of 18 years old and opt to continue receiving foster care services until reaching 21 years of age to be implemented by January 1, 2017. Per federal law, this plan must also include the expansion of adoption assistance. Research has consistently shown that youth who remain in care beyond age 18 receive additional independent living services, progress further in their education, experience less economic hardship, and experience less involvement with the criminal justice system than those who exit care at 18. Expanded foster care provides for positive outcomes for youth in care and has demonstrated cost savings for states by decreasing welfare, Medicaid, and criminal justice expenses over time. Session Law 2015-241, Section 12C.4 provides instructions to county child welfare agencies on how to implement Guardianship Assistance Programs in their counties. Guardianship assistance provides and alternative route to permanence when reunification and adoption has been ruled out as appropriate plans for youth. Guardianship assistance is also sensitive to potential guardians' and children's concerns about adoption and provides permanence for youth who would otherwise remain in foster care for the same period of time during which guardianship assistance benefits are provided. Guardianship assistance benefits will increase the number of youth exiting care to permanence by providing continued funds to assist in the cost of care for the youth. Some guardians currently receive WFFA child-only benefits when assuming guardianship of a youth while others may qualify for no benefits, resulting in a significant loss of financial support. Licensed caretakers often refuse to assume guardianship of the youth recognizing that remaining in care provides additional benefits and support for the youth. The Guardianship Assistance Program will address this disincentive to obtaining permanence.

9B. Explain: 10A NCAC 70B .0102; 70M .0402, .0603; 70P .0101-.0105 - Public Law 110-351, Fostering Connections to Success and Increasing Adoptions Act of 2008, provides states with the option to continue providing Title IV-E reimbursable foster care, adoption, or guardianship assistance payments to children up to the age of 21. If a state opts in expanding IV-E foster care to age 21, then they must extend adoption assistance and guardianship assistance to age 21 for youth adopted from foster care at 16 and 17 years of age and continue to meet the educational or employment requirements. The North Carolina Session Law 2015-241 2015 Appropriations Act rewrites G.S. 131D-10.10 to charge the Social Services Commission with the power and duty to "adopt any rules necessary for the expansion of foster care for individuals who attained the age of 18 years and chosen to continue receiving foster care services to 21 years of age in accordance with G.S. 131D-10.10." Additionally, state law requires the Department of Health and Human Services, Division of Social Services (Division), to develop a plan for the expansion of foster care services for individuals who have attained the age of 18 years old and opt to continue receiving foster care services until reaching 21 years of age to be implemented by January 1, 2017. Per federal law, this plan must also include the expansion of adoption assistance. Research has consistently shown that youth who remain in care beyond age 18 receive additional independent living services, progress further in their education, experience less economic hardship, and experience less involvement with the criminal justice system than those who exit care at 18. Expanded foster care provides for positive outcomes for youth in care and has demonstrated cost savings for states by decreasing welfare, Medicaid, and criminal justice expenses over time. Session Law 2015-241, Section 12C.4 provides instructions to county child welfare agencies on how to implement Guardianship Assistance Programs in their counties. Guardianship assistance provides and alternative route to permanence when reunification and adoption has been ruled out as appropriate plans for youth. Guardianship assistance is also sensitive to potential guardians' and children's concerns about adoption and provides permanence for youth who would otherwise remain in foster care for the same period of time during which guardianship assistance benefits are provided. Guardianship assistance benefits will increase the number of youth exiting care to permanence by providing continued funds to assist in the cost of care for the youth. Some guardians currently receive WFFA child-only benefits when assuming guardianship of a youth while others may qualify for no benefits, resulting in a significant loss of financial support. Licensed caretakers often refuse to assume guardianship of the youth recognizing that remaining in care provides additional benefits and support for the youth. The Guardianship Assistance Program will address this disincentive to obtaining permanence.
