The rule speaks to the right of every adult consumer to be considered legally competent unless adjudicated incompetent. The rule does not speak to the process of having one adjudicated incompetent. While it is unclear what happened in this case, the statement seems to express dissatisfaction with what happened to him personally and with the possible personal outcome for the individual. It is not clear what procedures were involved in this case, whether applicable rules were followed or whether the person's rights were violated.	Select One	Select One

While it is unclear what happened in this case, the statement seems to express the individual's dissatisfaction with the work allegedly performed by his attorney as well as with the fees charged and the case outcome. The statement also alleges the sister failed to follow the grievance process. However, it is unclear whether the person, his sister, or his attorney filed a grievance with the facility or an appeal with the Division or Department. The statement does not indicate whether the person filed an appeal with the Secretary as permitted by this Rule. It is not clear what type of appeal was involved in this case and hints that it may have involved a disability determination; if so, this is not handled by the facility or the Department.

While it is unclear what happened in this case, the statement seems to express the individual's dissatisfaction with the work allegedly performed by his attorney as well as with the fees charged and the case outcome. It also speaks to dissatisfaction with the actions of his sister. The statement does not indicate what type of appeal was involved in his case and suggests this might be related to a disability determination. If so, this is not handled by the facility, Division, or Department. It does not allege that a client advocate was denied access to information.	Select One Select One	Select One Select One
