9B. Explain: The proposed rule is about the process by which a person, authorized by N.C.G.S. § 163-165.7, may access, review, and examine information that voting system vendors place in escrow as part of the state certification of their voting systems. This escrowed information includes proprietary and highly sensitive information of voting systems, including the source code for voting machines and election management systems and their software.  The proposed rule is designed to ensure that authorized individuals may review this information without risking the disclosure of proprietary or competitive information belonging to voting system vendors or the disclosure of features of voting systems that could be exploited by malicious actors.

9B. Explain: The NEC is amended and published every three years through a consensus process at the NFPA. The 2023 NEC is the latest published edition and represents national industry and life-safety updates. The newest edition provides the industry with a standard that regulates the newest equipment and technology in accordance with the most current practices. The NC Amendments represent changes proposed by the Ad-Hoc Committee that complement North Carolina construction methods.  Certain changes in the Code will both increase and decrease the cost of installation in various circumstances. This rule is anticipated to decrease and increase construction costs overall. This rule is anticipated to increase the cost of a dwelling by $80 or more. This rule is not expected to affect local and state funds. This rule is anticipated to a cause a substantial impact. A fiscal note has been prepared as is included with this submittal. For the NCBCC to adopt the proposed North Carolina amendments to the 2023 National Electrical Code to create the 2023 North Carolina Electrical Code and meet the requirements of NCGS Chapter 150B Administrative Procedures Act, the 2017 and 2020 NC Electrical Codes are required to be repealed. The NCBCC introduced a petition to repeal the 2017 and 2020 North Carolina Electrical Codes on 12/12/23. The effective date of these repeals is 1/1/25.  The delayed effective date of this Rule is January 1, 2025. The Statutory authority for Rule-making is G. S. 143-136; 143-138.
